

Trading Bot

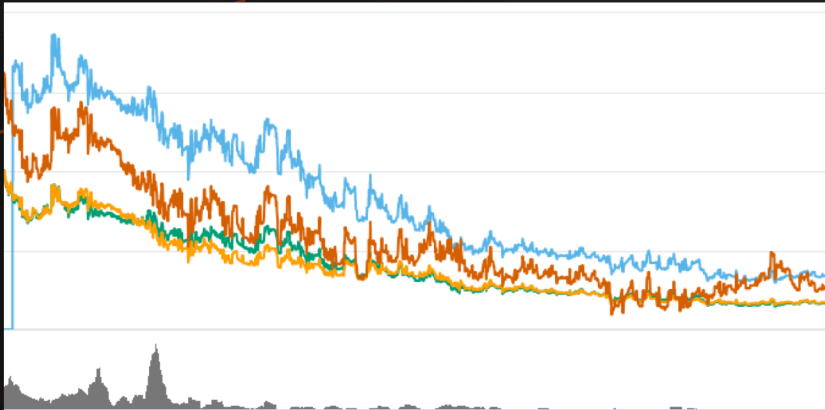

Keep large volumes on the exchange

Trading Volume on the Exchange

The trading volume on the exchange reflects the number of transactions in relation to your token over a certain period of time. This fixes interest in the token, its increase or decline.

NO INCREASE - NO INTEREST

The trading bot allows you to increase the dynamics of your token on the exchange, resulting in an increase in liquidity of the token on the market.

Maximal Similarity to Real Users

Every day, more and more projects try to keep up with competitors when entering the exchange and try to increase the liquidity of their token in all possible ways, including through trading bots. But by using a low-quality trading bot, you risk not only not achieving the desired result, but also spoiling the reputation of your project in the eyes of the public, creating unnatural trade dynamics.

We have developed our trading bot so that its transactions are indistinguishable from transactions made by ordinary users!

Advantages

Your token rises in rating on the exchange, thereby increasing its attractiveness

Your token is placed on Coinmarketcap (from $100,000 trades per day)

The opinion of token holders changes in a positive way, as they see a growing trend.

The trading bot can be used not only to raise trading volume, but also to keep the previously increased volume at the same high level

To use the trading bot more efficiently, you can configure:

Select a currency pair

Select the accounts between which trade takes place

Set the amount and frequency of transactions
